John Sekora Receives 2004 Cesery Award

TCAA is pleased to announce the 2004 Cesery Award will be presented to John J. Sekora during the Cesery Award Luncheon on September 28th at TCAA’s Annual Convention at Lake Tahoe, CA.

John is CEO and owner of Artisan Tile and Marble Co. of N.J., Inc., one of the largest, oldest and most respected tile firms in the country. John has served as both president and treasurer of the New Jersey Tile Contractors' Association, and was the TCAA president in 2000-2001. He has also served as chairman of the TCAA Scholarship Committee since its inception, a program which he was instrumental in creating. John was bestowed with the title of “official TCAA historian” in 2002 for his efforts in compiling his book “Ceramic Tile in 20th Century America”.

John has served on many local and national union committees, and was management trustee for several funds. He is a member of the Greater New York/New Jersey Tile Contractors Association, the Marble Institute of America, and the American Subcontractors Association.

John was the first tile contractor to graduate from the International Masonry Institute's (IMI) Contractor College. He also served on the board of governors of the National Alliance for Excellence (NAE), a merit scholarship foundation for academics and the arts, and was the recipient of the group's ALEX award in 1999.

Born and raised in Baltimore, Maryland, John lives at the Jersey shore with his wife, Doris. Along with John and his wife, four of his five children and his cousin work at Artisan Tile and Marble Co. of N.J., Inc.

John has devoted his "spare" time to the National Alliance for Excellence scholarship program. He has donated dozens of merit scholarships to America's gifted youths. John and his wife, Doris, established a five-year, $50,000.00 foundation in memory of Doris' mother - The Anna Bader Gift of Music to help expose disadvantaged children to the performing arts.

Due to its unexpected sale to a private investor two weeks ago, Ponderosa Ranch will be unavailable for this year’s planned Daltile Nite on the Town.

With the help of our good friends at Dal-Tile and Alexander’s Restaurant, we’ve put together an evening that promises to be equally terrific. You’ll board the Squaw Valley tram for a breathtaking ride to High Camp at the top of the Valley. Enjoy an evening of fine wine, spirits, gracious dining, jazz and dancing in one of the world’s most beautiful settings. So, put away your boots, dust off your dance shoes and join us for Daltile Nite on the Mountain!
From the President ...

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen of the TCAA

I hope you are all enjoying this summer as well as I am. In the East, we are enjoying lots of sunshine and, for the first time in a long time, I am back to my beloved golf, which I am playing often to the detriment of my family and business. This message will be a brief one, as it is summer, and I think with all the existing possibilities I have brought up in my previous letters, we will have a lot to talk about in the future.

I hope everyone will be coming to our convention in Lake Tahoe. The location, the resort, the wonderful TCAA members, and the superb planning of the Nolte sisters, promises this to be an absolutely special event! I can promise you with BAC President Flynn and IMI President Calambokidis, together with our fantastic board and past presidents who may grant us with their presence, it is going to be great!

The only serious note I have to make is that we have an almost unprecedented opportunity to create a partnership with IMI and BAC that can only make us as business people more successful. The presence of President Flynn and others indicates to me their desire to work with us and make our organization meaningful. In return, we must try to help them grow stronger. Together we will succeed. Our relationship has the potential to be the best it has ever been and it is pretty good right now!

Have a great rest of the summer and keep those cards and letters coming.

Vincent P. DeLazzero, II
Second Generation TCAA President

jobs, especially if they see those benefits as being proportional to the training and skills of the tile contractor. This is where the IMI comes in.

IMI has long recognized the marketing benefits of a continuing education program. We believe that a designer will be more likely to specify a material if technical information, seminars, and support networks are readily available. As a registered provider with AIA, these are all services IMI provides at no cost to the architect. While AIA and state guidelines prohibit an educational provider from giving proprietary or sales information, it is evident in all IMI's seminars that IMI-trained BAC craftworkers and contractors have the qualifications and training to provide the best performing tile installations.

IMI is addressing the growing demand for architectural continuing education by delivering technical seminars that improve the quality of design, and implicitly promote the use of union tile contractors and craftworkers. With TCAA as an industry co-sponsor, IMI will be hosting a five-city tour of Tile Marble Terrazzo Expos this fall, and we are scheduled to present a 3-hour architectural seminar on "Applied Design in Ceramic Tile" at Surfaces in Las Vegas in January.

Scott Conwell is a licensed architect, and spent two years serving on the national AIA Continuing Education Providers' Advisory Council. He is currently IMI's liaison to the BAC Tile Marble Terrazzo labor/management craft committee. For more information on the IMI/TCAA TMT Expos, visit www.imiweb.org.
2004 Supplier member Committee Initiative
Submitted by Les Lippert, Immediate Past President on behalf of the Committee

March 17, 2004

Under the initiative of consolidating our influence, we agreed that it is critical to involve our supplier members in TCAA to the greatest extent possible. Part of this process involves discovering their experience, knowledge, volunteerism, and interests. These answers can form the basis for inviting their participation in many ways.

The first way to involve them is through the creation of an actual committee of their peers, with a liaison to the Board of Directors. We have seen how valuable this can be by the contributions of John Turner, Sr., from Dal-Tile, on the Strategic Planning Committee.

Ideas regarding the structure and duties of the new committee are as follows:

Structure:

- Each supplier member firm should be granted one vote in the election of five (5) representatives from their peers, in good standing with TCAA, to serve on the committee. Nominations should be solicited prior to the Convention, with the nominations and vote conducted at a special meeting of the supplier members in attendance at the Convention.
- The term for each representative should be two years, except that Committee Members 1, 3, and 5 should be elected to an initial term of three years to provide for staggered turnover.
- The term limits should be intended to provide for rejuvenation without sacrificing continuity; I suggest two terms as practical.
- The committee should elect a chairperson, and the chairmanship should last the term of the individual so elected. The chair should be open at the end of the chairperson’s initial term, but the chairperson may be elected for another term as chair.
- The committee must designate a liaison to the TCAA Board of Directors. The liaison may be a committee member or any other supplier member as long as the designee is a member in good standing.
- The liaison is welcome to attend meetings of the Board of Directors and Strategic Planning Committee in an advisory capacity.
- A TCAA staff member should attend to assist, take minutes, and represent the Board of Directors.
- During the TCAA closed business meeting at the Convention, the supplier members should meet to address the committee and a TCAA staff representative, and to hear presentations of the committee.

Duties:

- This committee is intended to make accessible to the TCAA Board of Directors the experience, knowledge, and interests of the supplier members of the Association.
- This committee is formed to foster a closer interaction between the supplier membership and the Board of Directors.
- This committee is formed to participate in the Strategic Planning of the Association, thereby strengthening the emerging “new” Association.
- This committee will be encouraged to provide speakers, presenters, and panelists from their ranks for the program(s) of the annual Convention.
- If you’ve read this sentence, e-mail the TCAA office at: info@tcaainc.org to qualify for a prize-drawing.
- This committee will provide educational and training resources to bolster the TCAA member certification program.
- This committee will be encouraged to take “ownership” of some function(s) or Program(s) of the Convention, providing the planning and organization required.
- This committee may be requested to provide TCAA committee members for standing and new committees such as Strategic Planning, Membership, Technical, Website, Cesery, Scholarship, Convention Planning, or the like.
- This committee will be encouraged to assist the TCAA Board of Directors in recruiting new sales and contractor members.
- Other duties as suggested by the Board of Directors.

The above is not intended to be a complete list. Additions or deletions as suggested by the Committee, TCAA staff and the Board of Directors are welcomed.

Best regards,
Les Lippert, Immediate Past President
