TCAA 99TH ANNUAL CONVENTION

TCAA will host its 99th annual convention at the Venetian Resort Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, Nevada, November 3-6.

This year’s convention is packed with educational and entertainment opportunities, which promise to make your attendance well worth your time.

The educational and technical sessions will be kicked off with a keynote address by internationally recognized tile industry expert Patti Fasan. A skilled educator & communicator, Ms. Fasan delivers an entertaining and informative presentation. Specializing in ceramic tile for twenty years, she shares her research, project experience & passion for the industry. Ms. Fasan is a Certified Ceramic Tile Consultant (CTC) from the Ceramic Tile Institute of America (CTIOA) and has lectured in Europe, United States & Canada.

Ms. Fasan’s presentation will be followed with technical presentations by:

- Amorim Industrial Solutions - Sound Control for Hard Surface Flooring in Multi-Family Housing
- Aqua Mix - Stone 101
- Custom Building Products - Specifying Mortars for Ceramic Tile & Stone
- Laticrete International - Stone Installation and Options (AIA-18)
- Noble Company - Waterproofing for Ceramic Tile and Stone Installations

International Masonry Institute will also be on hand to offer 4 hours of IMI Contractor College. Contractor College, consisting of a diverse curriculum of business and technical courses, gives contractors educational information to assist in the building and running of successful businesses.

Recognitions abound at this year’s convention, including presentation of the Carl V. Cesery Memorial Award to Ray Byrne of Grazzini Brothers, Inc. and Trowel of Excellence Certification presented to Artisan Tile, Inc. We will also recognize this year’s Scholarship Winners, as well as winners of the 2007 Project of the Year competition.

Fun awaits as well! Enjoy the breathtaking views of the Hoover Dam during Sunday’s tour and don’t miss Dal-Tile Nite at Madame Tussauds, an unforgettable evening of superb dining and interactive fun with some of the world's biggest icons including the hottest stars of today, controversial politicians, record-breaking athletes and simply put, legends. And, of course you’ll want to visit the new wave of upscale "ultra lounges" like the Tao located at The Venetian and take in the casinos and bright lights of Las Vegas!

Registration forms are included in this newsletter. Complete yours today and join us November 3-6 in Las Vegas.

Visit us at www.tcaainc.org for complete convention details!
MESSAGE
FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends,

With the warm weather here, I hope you are taking full advantage of it and enjoying some summer fun. Here in Michigan, summer couldn’t have come at a better time. Karen, Mackenzie, and I just returned from our vacation in northern Michigan. Our week involved a lot of fun and created beautiful memories for us to share in the years to come. Hopefully we’ll be able to spend more quality time together again before summers end.

I’m now looking ahead to fall and our upcoming TCAA convention in Las Vegas. The Venetian’s “all suites” four star resort and spa will be our convention host and offers the best in everything that Las Vegas has to offer.

If you have never attended the TCAA Convention or have not been to one in awhile, I personally invite you come and see all that our association has to offer. Our format is fresh and educational and I guarantee you will learn something new and have fun all at the same time.

Karen and I look forward to seeing you there. Have a great summer.

Sincerely,

Michael Maiuri
TCAA President

NEWS FROM BAC AND IMI

Virtual Design with IMI Detailing Series

Designing with tile and other masonry materials just got easier, with the new web-based Masonry Detailing Series from IMI.

The series gives designers and builders instant access to masonry details and design solutions. It uses an interactive multimedia format that includes drawings, images, narratives, animated details and more. It really is one-stop shopping, offering detailed descriptions, product samples, technical data sheets, specifications, case studies, product literature, and in many cases, even a short movie. All the materials are instantly downloadable.

Jeff Lippert, Executive Vice President of Lippert Tile Co. in Menomonee Falls, Wisconsin, is optimistic that the details can help clear up confusion regarding proper installation methods, materials, and techniques. “We do a fair amount of educating - particularly architects, designers, and general contractors - about industry best practices,” he says.

“I also believe that IMI can use these details to educate other union tile contractors regarding industry best practices. Then, hopefully, the market will see a marked difference between union and non-union tile contractors,” says Lippert.

The details will also be used to train the next generation of union craftworkers, notes Steve Martini, IMI National Director of Apprenticeship and Training. It will help instructors keep current on the latest specifications, and educate trainees on techniques, materials and proper installation, he says.

IMI field staff use the Masonry Detailing Series in presentations and seminars, and are finding it very popular. Web reports bear that out, too. “This is really capturing the attention of the audiences we want to reach,” says BAC President and IMI Co-Chair John J. Flynn.

To keep customers coming back for more, IMI continually adds new topics. To see the Masonry Detailing Series in action, go to http://www.imiweb.org.

Marble Restoration, d/b/a Decorative Flooring Services

TCAA, in conjunction with the International Masonry Institute (IMI) and the Minneapolis regional tile contractors association held a one day Contractor College program at the Hilton Minneapolis/St. Paul Airport Hotel Friday March 23, 2007. The program included both masonry and tile/marble/terrazzo (TMT) contractors. Sixty people were in attendance with 31 representing the TMT industry.

The morning session included two general courses pertinent to both groups. The subjects were Project Delivery Systems and Building Codes and Standards. After lunch the groups were split up and two TMT specific courses were presented. These were Specifications and Details and Terrazzo/Terra Top Opportunities.

Two aspects of the day not included in the formal presentations but certainly just as important were the fact that IMI offered Contractor College on a regional level allowing for easier accessibility for more contractors and the interaction of locally competing contractors meeting together in a cooperative exchange of ideas to promote the TMT industry.

TCAA looks forward to providing this type of opportunity to more of our regional associations in the future. If any local group would like additional information or help with putting together a program for their members, please contact our national office.

“Status Quo” Not Good Enough!

Since the start of 2007, we have welcomed nine new members to the TCAA Family. Seven new contractor companies, including our two newest contractors shown below, and two new suppliers. While we are very pleased with the addition of these new members, we can do more!

The challenge is still out there to find other quality contractors and suppliers interested in becoming part of TCAA. Consider contacting a contractor from your area that you think would benefit from their association with TCAA. Talk with any suppliers you do business with on the benefits of TCAA membership. The best way to increase membership is for members to speak with their peers in the industry about the benefits they have received from their membership in TCAA. Local tile contractor associations are an excellent source of recruiting new members. If you speak with a fellow tile contractor or supplier who may have an interest in receiving further information or in joining the association, just forward their contact information to the TCAA office by phone at (800) 655-8453 or email the information to info@tcaainc.org and the staff will gladly follow-up.
INTRODUCING: LATICRETE Floor Warming

LATICRETE, a world-wide manufacturer of innovative systems for the installation of ceramic tile and stone, has launched the most comprehensive floor warming program available: LATICRETE® Floor Warming.

LATICRETE Floor Warming offers an exclusive self-adhesive mesh and wire backing allowing for faster and easier installation. Unlike traditional mats that require extensive stapling and are hard to install tile over, LATICRETE Floor Warming allows for much easier thin-set installation as there are no waves. In addition, LATICRETE Floor Warming is part of the LATICRETE Lifetime Residential Warranty which covers not only the floor warming system and components, it also covers the thin-set mortar and grout. “This has been something distributors and contractors have wanted for a long time,” said Sean Boyle, director, business development at LATICRETE, “by offering the radiant heating system along with our complete system, we simplify the selection and the installation, plus provide the customer with a single warranty.”

In addition to several innovations of the mat itself, LATICRETE offers 24-hour turnaround on floor layouts and an easy to use software program that allows customers to design their floor and identify product needs quickly and easily. Combined with renowned technical service, LATICRETE offers unparalleled nationwide support to distributors, contractors and dealers.

“It is our goal to aggressively promote the awareness of, and more importantly, the benefit of radiant floor heating to consumers, thus driving the demand of tile and stone,” says Boyle. “By investing heavily in marketing activities, dealers and distributors can realize incremental sales by providing better value to the end customer.”

LATICRETE International is a global leader in the manufacturing of tile and stone installation systems, known and trusted for industry leading innovation and expertise.
